Description
When I'm typing in the search bar, groups and people are shown mixed. It's difficult to find what you are looking for, especially when there are many users registered... Example:
 de
Devin Dennis Xiloj Demo of kune David Delgado Al-Demon Defensa de la ribera Proyecto Demo Demo Administrator Foro Democracia Prueba de Javi ...
What's a group and what's a person? They should be differenced, such as:
 de
--Pages-- Demo of kune Defensa de la ribera Foro Democracia --People-- Devin Dennis Xiloj David Delgado Al-Demon Proyecto Demo Demo Administrator Prueba de Javi ...

Optimally, prioritize buddies from the rest of the people, in its list (as it is more likely I'll be willing to see their homepages). The same goes for the groups I belong to: their group-page should appear before others.

That is, in the last example, if "David Delgado" and "Demo Administrator" are my buddies, and I belong to the group "Defensa de la ribera", the list should look like:

--Pages--

Defensa de la ribera

Demo of kune

Foro Democracia

--People--

David Delgado

Demo Administrator

Devin

Dennis Xiloj

AI-Demon

Proyecto Demo

Prueba de Javi
