Description

When I'm typing in the search bar, groups and people are shown mixed. It's difficult to find what you are looking for, especially when there are many users registered... Example:

> de

Devin

Dennis Xiloj

Demo of kune

David Delgado

Al-Demon

Defensa de la ribera

Proyecto Demo

Demo Administrator

Foro Democracia

Prueba de Javi

...

What's a group and what's a person? They should be differenced, such as:

> de

--Pages--

Demo of kune

Defensa de la ribera

Foro Democracia

--People--

Devin

Dennis Xiloj

David Delgado

Al-Demon

Proyecto Demo

Demo Administrator

Prueba de Javi

Optimally, prioritize buddies from the rest of the people, in its list (as it is more likely I'll be willing to see their homepages). The same goes for the groups I belong to: their group-page should appear before others.

That is, in the last example, if "David Delgado" and "Demo Administrator" are my buddies, and I belong to the group "Defensa de la ribera", the list should look like:

--Pages--
Defensa de la ribera
Demo of kune
Foro Democracia
--People--
David Delgado
Demo Administrator
Devin
Dennis Xiloj
Al-Demon
Proyecto Demo
Prueba de Javi
